

Frequently asked questions

Are there other opportunities to get involved?

Yes! Even if you're not able to come for a staff-led workshop, you can come to Buxton Museum for a free self-guide visit, and make use of our bookable handling resources to enhance your learning. We still ask that you book via the usual contact details.

We can also bring the learning to you. Most of our workshops can be delivered as outreach activities at your school. Contact us to enquire about prices and availability and we look forward to visiting you!

How can group leaders help?

All of our sites are shared with the public and adult group leaders must remain with their students at all times.

All of our workshops include active learning and require pupils to work in small groups to complete tasks. It would be helpful if group leaders and helpers could guide pupils' learning by assisting their activities. Your enthusiasm and participation is much appreciated!

Is there somewhere to take a lunch break between workshops?

Yes – there is a room set aside for school visitors lunch breaks at Poole's Cavern (and plenty of space outside weather-permitting) We also have bookable lunch spaces near to the Buxton Crescent and Buxton Museum. Please let us know if you'd like us to arrange a lunch space for you.

How do we get to you?

If you are coming by coach, you can drop off at the old Thermal Baths (for Crescent and Pump Room activities) outside Buxton Museum, or at Poole's Cavern, where there is a large coach park.

If coming by train, both the Pump Room and Buxton Museum are a ten minute walk through the town centre, and Poole's Cavern is a further thirty minute walk via the Pavillion Gardens.

Do you have risk assessments available?

Yes, we have downloadable risk assessments for each site and workshop on our website, which we will also send to you before your visit along with other practical information and suggested pre-visit activities.<sup>15</sup>
